(i) Use of Participatory and innovative Teaching-Learning Methodologies, Updating of subject content, Course Improvement etc.

S.No.	Short Description
1.	cross over Learning: An effective method for crossover learning involves teachers proposing a question or problem in the classroom to be solved in library visits or field trips. Student can learn by collecting data, taking down notes, or asking other people for their own thoughts. They then present what they learned back in the classroom to further illuminate the given problem.
2.	Flipped Classroom: A flipped classroom is a type of blended learning where students are introduced to content at home and practice working through it at college. This is the reverse of the more common practice of introducing new content at college, then assigning projects to be completed by the students independently at home.
3.	Real world Learning: college want to provide opportunities for students to develop the skills and competencies to prepare them for a productive future. Such opportunities include connecting with students’ lives and interests, and engaging them in solving relevant and authentic problems. In real world learning syllabus will be connected with real world situations in all aspects provoking all good conscience.
4.	Inquiry based learning: The definition of inquiry-based learning (IBL) is that it starts from a place of questioning. Students may spontaneously ask questions or be prompted to ask questions about a particular topic. They might research to find answers, engage in activities that will help them pursue answers, or work collaboratively in pursuit of answers; regardless, all learning stems from these questions. By engaging in inquiry-based learning, students come to understand that they can take responsibility for their learning.
5.	jigsaw; The cooperative learning strategy known as the "jigsaw" technique helps students create their own learning. Teachers arrange students in groups. Each group member is assigned a different piece of information. Group members then join with members of other groups assigned the same piece of information, and research and/or share ideas about the information. Eventually, students return to their original groups to try to "piece together" a clear picture of the topic at hand. That's the simple overview. The resources below will fill in the details and provide examples of the technique in action.
6.	Exit Slips. :Exit slips are written student responses to questions teachers pose at the end of a class or lesson. These quick, informal assessments enable teachers to quickly assess students' understanding of the material.
